It's those finishing touches that give a scheme personality and visual interest, and in 2025, it's all about using antique designs to make your design really stand out.

'A vintage light fixture can really transform a space, having something unique and special in each space (or many somethings!) is a very important part of our design process,' says Elizabeth Mollen, of Stone Textile Studio.

'We love incorporating antique lighting wherever possible! Our massive dining room chandelier is from an antique market in Paris,' she adds.
